Zest for Leaders

Patrick is dedicated to helping people to unlock their true leadership potential and to create a meaningful workplace that brings out the best in others.

After ten years of line management experience and working with multi-cultural teams, he established himself as a successful independent trainer consultant in the field of leadership, people skills, team development, corporate transformation and culture change. Patrick frequently conducts individual coaching and often acts as a trusted advisor.

He is founding partner of Zest for Leaders, a global network of leadership experts, maximizing value through people.

Patrick's customers include numerous global and European companies from a wide variety of sectors. He is a sought-after faculty member of a range of executive education providers.

Already more than 40 000 participants attended his seminars.

Background/Training/Certification:

Patrick graduated as business psychologist at the University of Ghent. He is an accredited and experienced user of a wide range of powerful diagnostic instruments, helping people to understand and manage themselves and others (such as the MBTI, the FIRO-B, TMS profiles, TKI, to name but a few). In particular, he is working already for more than 20 years with the Kolbe concept®.
